Wagon Train Heads Into West Today

Wet Weather Faces Covered Wagons On 'Old Oregon Trail'

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Oregon Centennial wagon train headed into Kansas today with another wet and chilly day facing the 21 persons aboard the seven covered wagons.

The train left Independence, Mo. Sunday to follow the old Oregon trail, a distance of more than 2,000 miles to Independence, Ore.

Fifteen members of the Indian Valley Riding Club, dressed as Indians, awakened the wagon camp at 5:30 A.M. and then stayed around for coffee as guests of the On-To-Oregon Cavalcade.

The travelers were, well bundled up as they left at 8:10 A.M., for protection against 43 degree temperatures and the damp air. Their destination today is Olathe, Kan.

The train made 20 miles from the town square in Independence its first day. Camp was made at the Red Bridge farm south of Kansas City last night.

Former President Harry S. Truman, as honorary wagon mater, started the caravan on its way. Several hundred persons were on hand to watch his departure.

The trip is expected to take 100 days. From Kansas City, the wagons head west to Topeka, Kan., then northwest through Nebraska, Wyoming, Idaho and into Oregon.

Soviet Embassy Denies Report Of MIG Patrols

BERLIN (AP)—The Soviet Embassy denied today that MIG fighters have begun regular patrols in the air corridors linking isolated West Berlin and West Germany. There was a similar denial from American officials.

The Soviet Embassy issued its statement in East Berlin after reports circulated abroad that a Soviet fighter squadron had been assigned to patrol West Berlin's air-lifelines.

"This report is not true," said J. W. Beburow, the chief Soviet spokesman. "There has been no change in the air corridor situation on our side. The only change has come from the American side."

He was referring to U.S. insistence that its Air Force planes have the right to fly to West Berlin above the Soviet-specified 10,000-foot ceiling.

Soviet MIGs have buzzed three U.S. Air Force transports within the last four weeks when they flew at altitudes above 10,000 feet, which Moscow claims must be reserved for Communist aircraft crossing the corridors.

The United States holds that its new transports operate more efficiently at higher altitudes and will be dispatched to Berlin at high altitudes whenever necessary.

Ike Asks Congress For Extra Space Fund

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower today asked Congress for an extra 45 million dollars for use to press for achievement of manned space flight.

Part of the money would be used in a program to develop a 1½-million-pound thrust single-chamber rocket engine for launching space vehicles.

Congress already has passed the bills authorizing the space projects. The President's request for the funds for the fiscal year ending June 30 was sent to the Capitol from his vacation headquarters.

The President requested the funds for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Charge Of Globe Is Dismissed

Paper to Have Ten Days To Appeal Ruling

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A charge of unfair labor practices, levied by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat against the striking American Newspaper Guild, was dismissed today by the St. Louis office of the National Labor Relations Board.

The Globe filed the complaint March 25, about a month after the strike started, charging that the Guild's insistence on retaining a contract clause dealing with dismissal of employees was an unfair labor practice.

The main mission of today's flight was to accomplish good separation between the two stages. If all went well, however, the missile would travel some 700 miles down range.

Project officers hoped that among other things the flight would show they had overcome some of the problems that caused the missile to shoot out of control on several of the earlier flights.

Observers said the missile appeared to separate successfully high in the sky.

It was learned that the main trouble in the program so far has been caused by excessive heat—temperatures as high as 7,000 degrees—which jammed the control system.

Polaris is steered in flight by controls called jetvectors. Attached to thrust nozzles at the base of the missile, the jetvectors change its direction by swinging from left to right.

The Navy hoped that special engineering refinements in this latest "bird" would be the solution to the heat factor.

Polaris reportedly made a brief trip back to the drawing board after the failure of Feb. 27.

The missile, developed by Lockheed Aircraft, is considered one of the so-called second generation missiles—more advanced than the intermediate range Thor and Jupiter.

Bolivian Rebel Commits Suicide

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—The leader of Sunday's short-lived revolt committed suicide after his rightist uprising was crushed, the government announced today. At least 22 persons were slain, and more than 50 were wounded in the course of the attempted coup.

The government of this poverty-plagued nation said Oscar Unzuaga de la Vega, head of the Falange party, took his life Sunday night in a house in the outskirts of this capital in which he had hidden. His bodyguard, Juan Gallardo, also shot himself to death, the government announcement said.

Violence At Mills Is Ended

Strike Mobs, Patrolmen Are Missing Today

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—Order returned to the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills today, its violent five-months-old strike officially ended.

The early first shift of workers reported as usual, but the lines of angry strikers and squads of highway patrolmen were absent.

This mill town, scene of rock throwing, fighting and almost nightly dynamite blasts, began to slip back into its old pattern.

The mills, which had been operating on a limited basis since Feb. 16, scheduled a second shift later today. A third shift will be added next Monday.

Boyd Payton of Charlotte, Carolina director for the Textile Workers Union of America, said only about 25 of 900 union members voted against ratification of a new one-year contract Sunday.

The strike started last Nov. 17 after the company insisted that an arbitration clause be removed from a new contract. After the mills reopened, two other issues developed—seniority rights of striking and non-striking workers and a union dues checkoff clause.

Payton said arbitration will apply for all disputes concerning disciplinary action. All other matters will be subject to arbitration by mutual consent. The union will have the right to strike in the event the company refuses to arbitrate.

Workers hired since the mills reopened Feb. 16 will retain their jobs. Payton said there will be no checkoff of union dues but the company agreed to erect dues collection booths at each mill.

Settlement of the strike came Friday night after Gov. Luther Hodges intervened.

Negotiations for a wage increase, not involved in this contract, will be started within 56 days, Payton said. An estimated $1,357,000 was lost in wages during the 23-week strike.

Alfred Steele, Drink Magnate, Dies at 57

NEW YORK (AP)—Soft-drink magnate Alfred N. Steele, husband of actress Joan Crawford, is dead at 57. He died in his sleep of a heart attack early Sunday at their lavish penthouse, just off Fifth Avenue.

Miss Crawford found him dead in bed about 9:30 a.m. He had gone to bed around midnight, commenting he felt unusually tired. Miss Crawford was placed under a physician's care.

In 10 years with Pepsi-Cola, Steele introduced radical changes that tripled sales. He was board chairman and executive officer of Pepsi-Cola at his death.

Steele and Miss Crawford eloped in May 1955. She described their marriage as more exciting than some of her screen roles. It was his third and her fourth.

After the marriage, Joan, now 51, dropped her career and shared his life as a busy executive. "Ours is a husband and wife team," she said. She once estimated they had flown 125,000 miles around the world.

Annual Questions

This Quiz Should Clear Up Daylight Saving Confusion

NEW YORK (AP)—If you're one of those people who get confused every year about Daylight Saving Time, don't be surprised—it is confusing.

Here's a little quiz that may help to straighten you out.

Q: What is Daylight Saving Time?

A: The custom of turning clocks ahead one hour in the spring and turning them back one hour in the fall, to make the most of long summer days.

Q: When does it start?

A: In most places observing it, at 2 a.m. Sunday, April 26.

Q: How long does it last?

A: Most places start it the last Sunday in April and end it six months later, on the last Sunday in October, which this year is Oct. 25.

Q: How many states change to Daylight Saving Time?

A: All or part of 24 states and the District of Columbia, mainly in the East and Middle West.

Q: What is the shortest DST period in the country?

A: Butte, Mont., which normally declares it from June 1 to Sept. 6. Butte is the only city in Montana which adopts daylight time.

Q: What is the longest period?

A: Kentucky, from April 26, to Oct. 31. It is meaningless in such cities as Lexington and Frankfort, however, since they maintain daylight time all year.

Q: Doesn't the mixed time situation create confusion?

A: It certainly does. Iowa, for instance, has no daylight time, but the border city of Davenport is expected to adopt it if Illinois cities across the Mississippi River do.

Illinois is probably the champion of confusion. About 80 per cent of its people go on DST until Oct. 25, but rural areas are divided, some stopping at Sept. 27, and others staying on Standard Time. Some counties stay on Standard Time while the people in them operate on DST.

Other states where uniformity is lacking include Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Mexico, Missouri, Ohio, West Virginia, Minnesota, Alabama, and Virginia.

Three small rebel bands, mostly of students, began operating from mountainous sections of the country early in April, apparently trying to ape the guerrilla tactics Fidel Castro used to overthrow the Cuban dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista. Four rebels have been killed and six captured in skirmishes with the National Guard, Panama's army and police.

Arias, 41-year-old son of ex-President Harmodio Arias, is the latest prominent politician implicated in a revolutionary wave which President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr. charges is building up against his regime.

Ike Proposes A-Test Plans

Asks Khrushchev to Take Talks Out of a Deadlock

GENEVA (AP)—President Eisenhower has made a personal appeal to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to take the nuclear test suspension talks out of their present deadlock, it was disclosed here today.

A letter from the President to Khrushchev was referred to at today's meeting of the three-power conference. It was understood to urge serious Soviet consideration of a western proposal for a step-by-step approach to the problem of ceasing atomic and hydrogen weapons test.

The disclosure of the letter was made as if by accident by a Soviet spokesman. U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth refused to confirm or deny it, but later Western sources made it clear the letter had been mentioned.

There was no indication of when the letter was written. The Western step-by-step proposal was made April 13 after Easter recess.

Under this plan the three powers would first stop nuclear tests on the surface of the earth, under water and in the atmosphere to a height of 31 miles. The problem of banning underground and outer space blasts would be left for later negotiations.

The disclosure of Eisenhower's personal appeal came at a time when there was increasing speculation that the whole problem of a nuclear test ban might be taken up during the foreign ministers conference opening in Geneva on May 11.

France is taking part in the foreign ministers conference but is not represented in the nuclear test ban talks.

Up to now Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin has given a negative response to the step-by-step proposal. He has clung to the position that agreement was still possible for a suspension of all types of nuclear tests.

The Foreign Affairs Committee is hearing testimony on President Eisenhower's $3,930,000,000 foreign aid program.

The group had argued before that North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces are not an effective war deterrent.

Fellers said "excessive expenditures for conventional weapons—meaning the Army and the surface fleet—which cannot be decisive against the enemy, our extension of aid to doubtful allies who can be blackmailed into neutrality lest they be incinerated, and the global diffusion of our effort are all a waste of means which could spell our doom."

Other Meetings Planned

Proposed New Optimist Club Meets at Breakfast

A meeting for the proposed new Optimist Club in Sedalia was held Monday morning at Pacific Cafe with 18 prospective members of the new club and 21 members of the Optimist Club, sponsoring the organization of another club, attending the breakfast.

Merle Ostergard, lieutenant governor of District 10, was the speaker and described the Optimist organization in a brief talk.

An Optimist club, he explained, is a group of men who dedicate themselves to their community. First, the main purpose, Ostergard continued, is service to youth, and the slogan is "Friend of the Boy."

Second, the philosophy of Optimism is an important factor. Too often, he said, we feel that things can't be done, but when we try, we find they can.

Third, the Optimists are concerned with good government on the local, state and federal levels.

Fourth, fellowship is derived from sitting down to a meal together, and coming away with a better feeling and closer friendships. He stated he had developed many friendships through Optimism, which have spread throughout the three-state district.

The fifth thing, he pointed out, is being a service club, through which much can be done for the community.

Don't join if you have in mind

County jail. Judge Frank Armstrong suspended the jail term on condition that he does not appear in Magistrate Court again. Testimony by the Highway Patrol indicated that he had been drinking to the extent that his driving created a hazard on the highway.

Joseph John Brocato, Kansas City, pleaded guilty to speeding on Highway 50 on March 28, and was fined $25 and costs. He was stopped by the Highway Patrol after being checked by radar while traveling 82 miles per hour.

Gene Couey Brockelman, of Grandview, pleaded guilty to speeding 81 miles per hour on Highway 50, on March 28, and was fined $25 and costs. Highway Patrol radar checked.

Howard Reabis, Sweet Springs, pleaded guilty to passing on a hill where the view ahead was obstructed, on April 1, and was fined $25 and costs. The fine and costs were remitted after he explained that he had been caught on the pass by an erratic driver ahead.

Robert O. Barron, Springfield, pleaded guilty to driving on the wrong side of the road on March 7, and was fined $15 and costs.

Charles Lavern Ervin, LaMonte, charged with running a school stop sign, was fined $10.

Betty Lou Harris, Warrensburg, charged with running a school stop sign, did not appear and her $10 bond was ordered forfeited.

Arthur Joseph Wooley, Whiteman AFB, charged with running a stop sign, pleaded guilty and was fined $2.

Derle E. Shoemaker, Whiteman AFB, charged with making a loud and unnecessary noise with a motorcycle, pleaded guilty and was fined $10.

Albert Roy filed a petition for divorce against Christine B. Roy in Circuit Court April 17. William F. Brown is the attorney for the plaintiff.

John Steele filed a motion for a new trial in the damage suit of John Steele against James M. Mantonya, Jr., for damages resulting from a car-pedestrian accident in Kansas City on Aug. 22, 1957. A jury ruled in favor of the defendant in a trial April 13-14. Davis, Thompson, VanDyke and Fairchild of Kansas City are the attorneys for the plaintiff. Wesner and Wesner are the attorneys for the defendant.

Bill Franklin Randall, 1010 East Broadway, pleaded guilty to passing on a hill where the view ahead was obscured, and was fined $25 and costs. He was stopped by the Highway Patrol on March 29, on Highway 50.

Bill Harmon Holman, 1306 South Lamine, pleaded guilty to driving with an expired drivers' license on March 29, and was fined $5 and costs. He was picked up by the Sedalia police on another charge, and the investigation showed his license had expired.

Patrick Edward Wagner, no address given, pleaded guilty to driving with an expired license plate on March 22, and was fined $5 and costs. Judge Frank Armstrong remitted the fine and costs, due to a mix-up in acquiring the proper title, and the subsequent purchase of the license.

Clark Rensison, Kansas City, pleaded guilty to failing to keep his car on the right side of the road, on Highway 50, and was fined $100 and costs, and sentenced to 30 days in the Pettis

"What will it do for me? Is it going to help my business?" Ostergard said, then added, but you will get much out of it in the friendships it will give, a pride in seeing a boy look up and smile and say, "Thanks", for through the work as an Optimist you will get a satisfaction you have never had before.

Optimist International has 1,500 clubs, he said, the headquarters being in St. Louis. Individual clubs, Ostergard explained, set their own policies, elect their own officers.

There are 35 districts in Optimist International, and in the 10th District there are now 69 clubs—this one, he said will be the 70th.

Ostergard stated that there are seven lieutenant governors, and he is lieutenant governor of Zone 4, in which there are 11 clubs. He stated that it is his duty to visit the clubs and assist in any way. A new club must have 25 members to organize and it is better to start with 35, as there are advantages in securing the larger number to start with. He said the club need not be a breakfast club, it can be a luncheon club or a dinner club, but he advised, since there is already a luncheon club in Sedalia, this one should be one of the other two.

The meeting was conducted by Gerald Cecil, president of the Optimist Club, with invocation by Harold Barriack.

Charles Hanna led the singing, with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano. All members and all guests introduced themselves.

Another meeting will be held Monday morning of next week at 7:30 at the Pacific Cafe, for further steps in organizing the new club.

Eisenhower spent a quiet Sunday at his vacation retreat. A misty rain kept him indoors with bridge-playing companions during the morning and afternoon.

When the weather cleared he played a round of golf.

We Must Know The Truth

Nothing could be more irresponsible than ill-founded, alarmist talk involving the dangers of radioactive fallout. But a good deal of evidence is turning up these days which doesn't fit that category at all.

Testings of wheat and milk show surprisingly high amounts of the dangerous by-product, Strontium 90. Recent reports have it that this material falls to earth much faster than was earlier thought, and is therefore not in the stage of relatively harmless decay imagined.

Another notion knocked out not long ago was the idea that the spread of fall-out is pretty even around the earth. It seems now that it tends to touch the land with maximum impact in those regions from 25 to 50 degrees north or south latitude. This of course includes the heavily populated areas of northern United States.

The real extent of the peril represented in these newer findings is not at all clear. What is plain is that the fallout problem is more acute than we had believed, and that we need intensive new studies both on its impact on the earth and its effect on human beings either directly or thru their food supply.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Housing Bill Deadlock By One Vote

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON—The House rules committee met in closed session last week to vote whether the housing bill, containing two billions of mortgage money for the building industry and for slum clearance, was to be uncorked so the rest of Congress could vote on it. One vote only could keep it in committee so 435 other congressmen would have no chance to vote.

There was silence as the committee met. But in the back of the minds of six Democratic members was a conversation held last January with Speaker Sam Rayburn, 77-year-old boss of the House of Representatives.

Congressman Chet Holifield of California had gone to Sam in January to urge that the throttle-hold of the rules committee on all legislation be loosened, so that one vote only could not prevent 435 other congressmen from voting.

A new Congress had just been elected. New, fresh members, full of zeal and determined to make the democratic process work, had just come to Washington. And Holifield urged Rayburn to revise the rules and unloose the democratic process.

"This is a complete perversion of our time-honored system," he told the speaker in their private session. "It gives two men far too much power over other members of Congress. The rules committee now seeks to write legislation, not merely schedule the order of voting on legislation."

Holifield spoke eloquently. The elder statesman from Texas listened. Finally he said: "Look, you want legislation, don't you? All right, I give you my assurance that any reported legislation will clear the rules committee. You have my word. And if it doesn't get through the rules committee then you have my word that I'll help you get a 21-day rule to get it out of the rules committee."

"Howard Smith," he added, referring to the rules committee chairman from Virginia who has ridden roughshod over colleagues to bottle up bills, "will have to play ball like everyone else. No one is bigger than the Democratic party."

But at last week's closed-door, crucial meeting of the rules committee, the same Howard Smith, chairman, called for a vote on the housing bill, and himself voted to bottle the housing bill. The vote was 6 to 6. His vote, added to that of Mississippi's Colmer and four Republicans, tied up the bill.

Today, with a bill affecting the entire build-

LIVING HIGH ON THE HOG—Want to know how to live without working?

It's simple. Vote for the Welfare State and have kids. This is the way to independence.

Mr. Brooker, of England, lives with his wife, 13 children, 12 dogs and 1 cat—28 in all. And he doesn't work. Not that he's sick. He's well. Not that he is rich. He's not. He has a mortgage on his house.

The fact is, he can't afford to work. The Welfare State gives him subsidies and allowances of cash, groceries, milk, clothing and free doctors' bills amounting to more than he could earn if he got a job.

So the other Britishers, who do have jobs, but not 13 kids, have the job of supporting Mr. Brooker, as well as themselves.

Do I hear some one say, "That can't happen here"? Listen, my friend, it does happen here.

Judge Bretherick, of Philadelphia, says, "It becomes apparent that child bearing has become a business venture." He says ten or eleven illegitimate children of one mother are not uncommon in the county where he holds court.

He estimates that 31 to 35 per cent of public assistance tax money for dependent children goes to support the kids of unwed mothers.

Subsidizing immorality and the breakdown of character has become big-time politics.

Meantime, organized labor demands unemployment compensation so high that incentives to find jobs approach the vanishing point.

Fall-out, too, is not the only troublesome problem associated with nuclear experiment and production. The disposal of radioactive wastes is of mounting concern.

At that stage when our civilian nuclear power program is well along, we will have to get rid of some 50 million gallons a year of so-called high-level radioactive waste. Nobody conversant with the problem imagines for a second that it will be a simple problem.

Feeling increases in this country that the Atomic Energy Commission is not the agency to sit in judgment on these vital questions of national and world health. As the developer of nuclear weapons, it cannot come to this issue with detachment.

The U. S. Public Health Service, long respected for its balanced study of matters affecting the general health and related questions, would seem to be a sensible agency to charge with this inquiry. If not that body, then some special group which would of necessity draw heavily upon the health service's experience and background.

Enough danger signals have been raised to justify immediate and exhaustive attention to this terribly pressing question.

ing industry stymied and gathering dust, a lot of congressmen are watching Sam Rayburn to see whether he keeps his word.

Note—The Republicans who joined Democrats Smith and Colmer in killing the housing bill were: Allen (Ill.), Brown (Ohio), Reece (Tenn.), and Budge (Idaho). The Democrats who voted for the bill were: Madden (Ind.), Delaney (N.Y.), Trimble (Ark.), Thornberry (Tex.), Bolling (Mo.), and O'Neal (Mass.).

GOP Sit-Down

Republican members of the Senate interstate commerce committee have taken a leaf from the early tactics of Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers—the sit-down strike. In those rough-tough days of unionizing, the auto workers sat down inside a factory and refused to budge.

GOP senators are now doing the same thing in regard to the confirmation hearings of Adm. Lewis Strauss to be secretary of commerce. When chairman Warren Magnuson of Washington appointed a subcommittee to sift the complicated mass of evidence regarding Strauss, the Republicans just sat down. They refused to serve.

This, if continued, would give the secretary of commerce a special immunity not granted other appointees who have to pass Senate scrutiny. It would mean that the right of the Senate to scrutinize and confirm could be virtually nullified by refusal of Republican senators to serve on an investigating subcommittee.

Already, Strauss has ducked certain questions asked him during the preliminary probe of the full interstate commerce committee. So far also he has not submitted a list of his financial holdings, despite the fact that other high officials are required to do so. As secretary of commerce, his decisions can affect the prosperity and profit of companies in which he might hold investments. Yet the man who wants to be confirmed as secretary not only has failed to submit a financial statement, but has been working feverishly backstage to sidetrack any thorough probe into his past government operations.

To further sidetrack that investigation, Republican members of Magnuson's committee have now decided to boycott the subcommittee appointed to investigate the manner in which Strauss was involved in the biggest conflict-of-interest case of the many unearthed in this administration.

A Capitalist Contradiction

Events in Iraq May Give Moscow Trouble

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Some State Department analysts are intrigued by a chance that what seems a brilliant Communist success in the Middle East may prove to be a troublesome and even dangerous headache for Moscow.

The speculation seems justified that events in Iraq can cause trouble for the Kremlin. Soviet Communists for years cheerfully based their confidence on what they called capitalist contradictions. They have many of their own—perhaps more than the West has suspected. One seems to be emerging now.

Deep-rooted Russian imperialist tradition and the awkwardly inflexible dogma of Marxism-Leninism may be colliding with 1959 impatience.

A clue came early this year from the 21st party congress in Moscow, attended by Communist leaders from all over the world. Developing at that moment was the Iraq situation, with its look of golden opportunity.

To the Great Russians here was a chance to realize what the czars had vainly dreamed of for centuries: a foothold on the Persian Gulf. To the Communists, here was a chance to establish com-trolling influence for the first time in an important Arab oil producing area. But two things were in the way—Russian tradition and Communist dogma.

Moving out restlessly for centuries from the duchy of Muscovy, the Russians did not overlap land barriers. In modern times, communism was imposed upon nations only where there was bordering Communist territory. Turkey and Iran lie between the U.S.S.R. and Iraq.

Communists label Iraq feudal, colonial and dependent. Dogma would require that Iraq now develop her "national bourgeoisie" (middle class) revolution to the point where a significant industrial proletariat would be the excuse and the instrument for seizing power.

But what about local Communists? Should they forego opportunities because of traditions and outdated dogma? Could they be faithful indefinitely without prospect of victory in their own lands and rewards in their own time? Conservative Moscow Communists might shy away from the prospect of communism trying to survive as government and way of life in a country lacking a border with another Communist state. The prestige of the movement would be at stake.

Moscow strategy planners, too, would be wary of permitting an overt seizure of power which might bring a direct threat of world war. Communists are supposed to serve Moscow foreign policy, not their national interests.

Month-Long Dedication For St. Lawrence Seaway

By Esther Van Wagoner Tutty
Of Our Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — No one on the Great Lakes is apt to forget the official opening of the St. Lawrence seaway come Summertime.

Not just a one-day dedication would suffice to celebrate the unlocking of the Great Lakes, even with the President and the Queen of Great Britain doing the honors for the United States and Canada. It'll take a month, from June 26 through July, to dramatize the passage from inside USA to the sea.

After all, the seaway has been dreamed about for years, long before Congress began a 25 year debate on its feasibility.

The highlights are many, varied, and increasing:

. . . A royal tour of Her Majesty and Prince Philip will be aboard the Royal yacht Britannia.

. . . Her Majesty will unveil a plaque on the International boundary, which runs through the center of the powerhouse of the $600 million St. Lawrence Power project.

. . . Largest warship, even on Great Lakes, the heavy cruiser MACON, will be berthed temporarily at Eisenhower locks for public boarding and inspection.

. . . Pioneer cruise ships of the Georgian Bay line plan "the cruise of the century."

. . . Twenty-eight US Navy warships will pass through Eisenhower and Snell Locks to 24 ports in the Great Lakes on a training cruise.

The "lucky ports" are Detroit, Port Huron, Milwaukee, Green Bay, Marinette, Menominee, Sheboygan, Duluth, Marquette, Sault Ste Marie, Muskegon, Mackinaw City, St. Ignace, Cheboygan, Bay City, Toledo, Lorain, Cleveland, Ashtabula, Dunkirk, Buffalo, Ro-

First Republican to file a candidacy for state office in next year's primary is Edward G. Farmer, Jr., Joplin, who filed for governor. Farmer is serving a second term in the state House of Representatives. He is an attorney.

The race for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state now has four candidates after a St. Louis attorney filed. He is Russell A. Grantham.

King Road Bloc Active Again

A big bloc in the House seeking part of a proposed gasoline tax increase for King Roads is active again. Here is their plan:

Split a proposed two-cent gasoline tax increase so that the highway department gets three-quarters of a cent; cities get three-quarters of a cent; and counties get one-half cent.

Under the plan, cities would be relieved of their present power to tax gasoline but would get more money.

As for counties, the plan would insure a continuing source of income for King Roads, freeing the program from dependence on a fluctuating appropriation from general revenue. Leadership of the King Road bloc feel strongly that dependence on general revenue eventually will spell the death of the King Road program.

Bus and Truck Bill May Cost Thousands

Two bills which the House passed and which now repose in the Senate make obsolete hundreds of bridges in the state and could cost taxpayers thousands of dollars in replacement costs, according to well-informed road officials.

More important, they say, is the threat to the safety of everyone who uses bridges outmoded if the bills become law.

The bills, championed by the powerful bus and truck lobby, do away with the bridge formula used by the state for many years which simply required that the bigger the load, the longer the bridge formula, the smallest truck can carry the maximum allowable load, or as much of it as can be piled on. Thus, weight can be so concentrated, many bridges will not take it.

Since the state's bridges were designed with the formula in mind, doing away with the formula amounts to doing away with the bridges — at least those in less traveled areas of the state which are designed closer to minimum standards than elsewhere.

The bus and truck lobby has claimed that trucks carrying the maximum load will not use the bridges in less traveled areas of the state. But, records of the highway patrol, the highway department, and the public service commission do not bear out this claim.

The big lobby also claims bridges can be posted so as to keep off buses and trucks which might damage them or crash through. However, highway department officials disagree and can show that without a bridge formula, posting would not be practicable.

The House bill also boosts maximum allowable gross weight of trucks to 68,000 pounds. And, the allowable height of trucks also is increased by the bills.

House Amends Fireman Bill

A bill setting normal working and off duty hours for fireman was amended, by the House to allow fire districts to vote on the proposal and to vote a tax to support it.

Rep. Donald R. Roderique, (D., Jasper), proposed the amendment arguing that the plan as set forth in the bill would cost fire districts a lot of money and the people of the district should be allowed a vote on adopting it.

Marriage More Than Rosy Interlude, You Teen-agers

"We're old enough to know what we want," writes a 16-year-old girl who is planning, much against her parents' wishes, to marry a 17-year-old boy as soon as he finishes high school in June.

Sure, you're old enough to know what you want today. But few 16-year-olds are old enough to know what they may want five years from now.

Besides, there is more to marriage than knowing you want to be married.

There is the matter of living expenses. Unless the boy you are in love with is able to support you without help from either of your families he isn't ready for marriage.

There is the matter of responsibility. Sure, you're old enough to fall in love and to live in a rosy, romantic glow. But are you old enough not to resent being tied down by children, to swap a girl's easy existence for a woman's responsibilities?

There is the matter of education and growth. Your husband will have to give up any ideas he might have of further education if he marries you, and you may have to give up similar thoughts.

Remember that the young people who are waiting for marriage until they are older will be getting a better preparation than your young man and yet he will have to compete with the better educated when he seeks advancement in whatever work he chooses.

So it isn't just a question of being sure that you are in love. Marriage isn't just a romantic interlude. It's a lifetime choice. Maybe you and your young man had better talk over a few of the points brought up here and see if you don't think it would be better to postpone your marriage for a few years.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

● Itchy Skin

Q. "For about thirty minutes after I take a bath I itch all over. What causes this?"—N.H.

A. It could be due to a number of things such as allergic sensitivity to heat or cold, type of soap used, hardness of the water, or dryness of the skin. Try applying a light coating of mineral or vegetable oil before bathing. Change the temperature of the water used. If cold baths have been taken, switch to warm. If this helps, gradually go back to cold water and vice versa. Change to a different brand of soap. If these simple measures fail, consult your family doctor or a dermatologist.

Q. Don't you think most fat people are overweight because of gland trouble?

A. The glands seem to play only a small role in obesity. The problem of obesity is many-sided. Heredity and environment are important and even stress plays a part. Take the case of the slim father and daughter and obese mother and son. The father had, a nervous breakdown and this worried the daughter no end. Father and daughter, already slim, lost more weight. The overweight mother and son worried about the father too but their reaction to tenseness and anxiety took the form of "nervous eating" and they gained weight. The family situation (environment) was exactly the same but the fat ones became fatter and the thin ones thinner. The overweight problem is so complex that it is no wonder doctors consider obesity a disease of human nutrition.

Summer Work Ahead With Garden Planted

By Art Gaus, Extension Vegetable Crops Specialist

Mid-April should find us with all our spring garden planting chores completed. For most areas of Missouri this has been a good spring for planting early vegetables. There still may be a place to plant second or third plantings of radishes and leaf lettuce, but all other spring vegetables should be planted and should have sprouted and germinated.

Now we have our work cut out for us. This is no time to sit back and relax. Instead, we should resolve this year to really take care of the garden. So make plans now to keep weeds in check, see that insects and diseases are controlled, and if possible, make plans to provide for irrigation water. Really, it's the proper attention to weeds, insects and diseases, and water that will give us a top notch garden.

Let's talk about controlling weeds. We all know that this is perhaps the least desirable garden chore we have to do. But it must be done. So let's pitch in and do it! Now, there is an easy way of doing things and a hard way. This applies to weeding your garden too. So here are some tips on how to make the job easier.

First, if you have a large garden, there may be the possibility of using the farm tractor. This is really an easy way to get the cultivating done if — and this sometimes is a big if — if the tractor is available when needed! Too often the tractor is too busy elsewhere and soon weeds take over. So use the farm tractor if it is available. Remember to provide the tractor with easy access to the garden and have the rows long enough so the tractor doesn't have to turn too much. Be sure the rows are properly spaced to fit standard cultivator settings.

Now, if you don't have a farm tractor or the tractor is not available when needed, then you have to go to other types of equipment. For ease in getting the job done, a garden tractor or rotary hoe is recommended. They both do a good job, their chief disadvantage is requiring an investment of over $100. Before buying one it would pay you to shop around. Ask your friends and neighbors to tell you what they like and dislike about the ones they have. Generally speaking smaller garden tractors and rotary hoes handle a lot easier than larger ones, and they are less expensive, too.

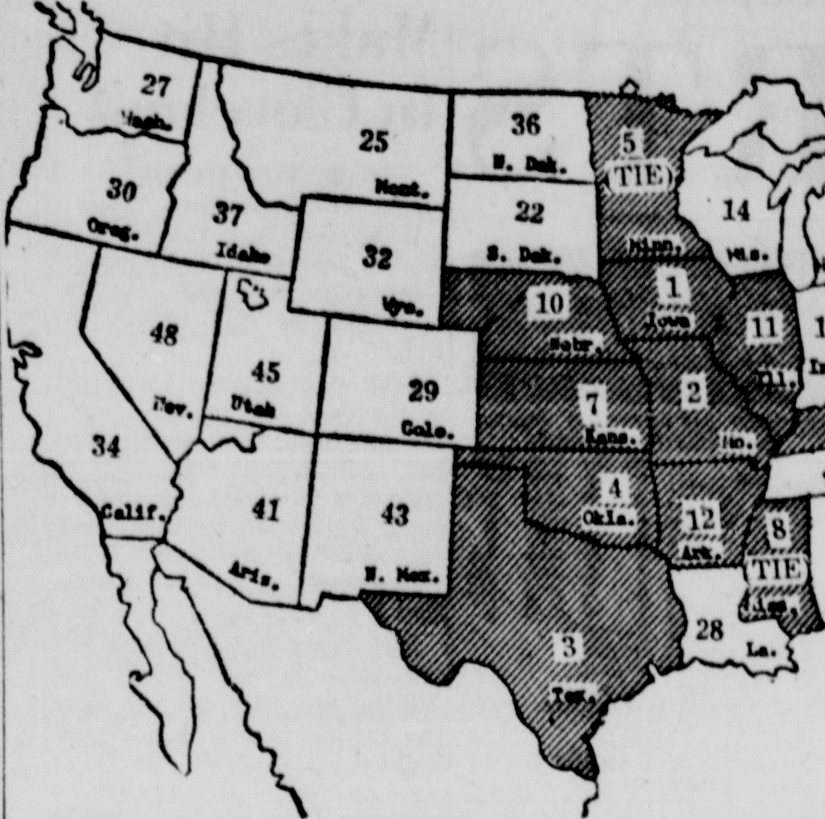

Now, if you feel you can't afford a garden tractor or rotary hoe at this time, there are several hand wheel cultivators available which do a good job. Investigate the many types that are available and select the one that "fits your situation best".

And last, but surely not least, is the garden hoe. We always have a use for this implement. Remember the hoe is not for cultivating the whole garden. It is for the clean-up or dress-up jobs. It gets the weeds between the plants and the few weeds that cultivators miss.

Here are a couple tips on how to make hoeing easier. First, get a small, light handled hoe, the smaller and lighter the better. Second, keep the hoe razor sharp. Third, keep the hoe clean.

Two final tips: cultivate frequently, every ten days to two weeks, and do not cultivate deeply, never more than two inches. So stock up on the right kind of equipment and get the weeds before they get your garden.

RANK OF STATES IN SOIL CONSERVATION

Missouri ACP and Balanced Farming Programs Put State High in Soil-Building Practices.

With rankings based on seven major soil conservation practices, Missouri ranked second in this important field in 1957, according to a recent United States Department of Agriculture summary of its Agricultural Conservation Program for that year. The state's first place ranking points out the effectiveness of the coordinated soil-conservation program of the ACP and the Missouri Agricultural Extension Service's Balanced Farming program.

The seven ACP practices taken into account in the ranking of the states in the map above include liming, pond building, use of green manure and cover crops, construction of permanent sod waterways, building of terraces, establishment of improved pastures, and building of diversion terraces, ditches and dikes. These practices apply particularly to the heavy livestock and grain producing section of the United States.

Lime Must Be Spread Right Now

By O. T. Coleman, MU Extension Soil Specialist

If your soil needs lime, you'll have to get it spread right now and worked in, to do this spring's crops any good. To do you the best job, this lime must be worked in so the plant foods that limestone contains will be down where the plant's feeder roots are. That can't be done very well after you plant your crop. Another thing, limestone takes a while to break down and help this crop. So if you don't get it on and worked in the soil before you plant, the young seedlings may get off to a weak start, or be stunted for lack of the important plant foods lime furnishes.

Now, there's something else you'll need to do to get best returns from lime. Put on enough of limestone to do the job. And to know how much of this lime your soil needs, you'll need the information a soil test will give. Then find out from your limestone man how much actual plant food his lime contains and how finely it's ground. You need to know this to figure how soon that lime will become active in your soil and help your crops.

In other words, you should know the limestone's calcium and magnesium content and how much of it will go through certain sifting screens. Now, the calcium and magnesium content of a certain limestone can't be changed much by the producer, but how finely it is ground is largely up to him. This determines how soon it will really help your crops.

Let's say it this way — low analysis, coarse lime won't contain as much effective calcium or magnesium per ton as will high quality, finely ground material. And low analysis, coarse lime will reduce the acidity of your soil at a slow rate and thus be slower in making some of the other plant foods such as nitrogen more available to crops.

This simply means you should make your plans early enough to get lime stone on ahead of planting time. Find out from your supplier the calcium and magnesium content of his lime and how finely it is ground. Your soil test report will tell the pounds of effective calcium and magnesium your soil needs. After you know this, you can figure out how many tons of limestone you need. Then get it on right away.

First, get a soil test.

Then, see your limestone dealer. Show him the soil test results and find out how much of his particular grade of limestone it will take to furnish the calcium and magnesium your crop will need. Ask him how finely he grinds his limestone. With this information you'll know how quickly that limestone is likely to become ready for action in your soil.

Then, get that limestone spread and worked into the soil before you plant.

Some Things Can Be Done To Perk Up Ailing Trees

By L. E. McCORMICK, MU Extension Forester

Perhaps, you're one of the thousands of homeowners who are wondering if your favorite shade trees will leaf out and grow as they should this year. If your trees were healthy and vigorous last year, you probably need not worry. But, there are some things you can do to maintain health and vigor, or help ailing trees recover.

Fungus diseases of leaves were common on many species last year due to an unusual amount of rainy and humid weather. These diseases, which are known as leaf spots or blotch, are not considered serious unless they occur several years in succession. The black leaf spot of elm, which was very severe in many sections of the state in 1958, is a good example of these infections. Early spraying with a fungicide such as "ferbam" will help control fungus diseases, but the spray program must be started before the infection becomes established. In the case of broadleaf species, spraying must be started as soon as the leaf buds start to unfold. Usually three sprays at two week intervals will give control.

The question of topping trees always arises at this time of the year. Only under extreme conditions should large trees ever be topped. Young trees can be pruned severely if necessary. But, on older trees when ends of limbs three inches or more in diameter are bobbed off, the work creates open wounds which never will heal over. They remain as sources of infection and rot. When it is necessary to remove large limbs due to interference with wires or buildings, it is best to remove the limbs flush with the main trunk or at a junction with a parent treated with a good dressing, they will probably heal over and cause no trouble.

Fertilizing may help maintain or restore vigor to broadleaf trees. Although many tree surgeons and landscape specialists use liquid fertilizers, a dry, commercial fertilizer such as 10-10-10 can be used by homeowners. A standard application consists of two pounds of commercial fertilizer for each inch of diameter of the tree. In other words, a tree which is 10 inches through at three feet above the ground needs an application of about 20 pounds of fertilizer. This should be applied in a series of holes 18-24 inches deep. The holes can be bored with a soil auger or punched with a crow bar. They should be spaced about two feet apart and should be located under the outer ends of the limbs. Evergreen trees and shrubs do not require much fertility so should be fertilized sparingly if at all.

Elm bark beetles and elm leaf beetles, both of which were very troublesome in 1958, can be controlled by spraying. DDT gives satisfactory control on both species of beetles. A single application applied when the leaves are approximately 1/4 grown will control leaf beetles. Adornant spray during the winter followed by a foliage spray between July 15 and August 15, is recommended for the control of bark beetles. However, attempts to control these pests should be on a neighborhood or community basis. Otherwise, trees soon become reinfested from neighboring trees.

Mexico City surrendered to Gen. Winfield Scott on Sept. 14, 1847, ending the Mexican War.

Fertilizer Spray Holds Some Weeds

By ROSS FLEETWOOD, MU Extension Field Crops Specialist

If you have been using 2,4-D to control the broadleaved weeds in your corn, you may have wished that the chemical would also control grassy weeds. Unfortunately, this is not possible where spraying is done after grasses have come up.

However, if the ground can be sprayed with 2,4-D immediately after corn is planted, any weeds or grasses which germinate during the next three to five weeks will be killed. This is known as a pre-emergence spray and it has a definite place on many farms.

This spraying has the advantage of holding back weeds and grasses. It delays that first cultivation until corn has made a growth which permits fast and easy cultivation.

If you are interested in using a pre-emergence spray on your corn there are three chemicals generally available this year, namely 2,4-D, Simazin and Randox.

An application of one to two pounds of 2,4-D acid equivalent per acre can be made anytime between planting and the coming up of corn. Either an overall or band spray may be used. The band spray consists of spraying of 12 inch band over the row and leaving between rows unsprayed. It is cheaper but not substantially so, and there is some advantage to controlling weeds in the entire area, too.

Chemical 2,4-D can't be used on sandy soils and it is necessary to cultivate weeds which come up after the effect of the chemical is exhausted. But, all things considered, 2,4-D is the most practical of the three.

Simazin, a new chemical, gives about three months control of weeds and grasses so that cultivations are not necessary. It is expensive, however, and if used as a band spray to save costs, it will need to be supplemented by cultivation to control weeds between rows.

Randox is also expensive and must be followed by cultivation. However, it does control grasses quite effectively.

If you're interested in pre-emergence spraying on corn, see your county extension agent for a copy of Folder 63, "Pre-emergence Spray for Corn."

Livestock Price Likely to Stay Fairly Steady

Livestock prices are likely to stay fairly steady for the rest of 1959. According to a USDA outlook specialist from Washington, D. C., present livestock prices are a good indication of what can be expected for the remainder of '59.

Harold F. Breimyer told University of Missouri Spring Livestock Day listeners in Columbia recently that cattle prices are holding well and should continue steady.

As to hog prices, Breimyer noted that they're lower than last year's prices, and, he added, they're likely to stay lower. Lamb prices are expected to continue to recover from early winter lows to average close to 1958 prices for rest of 1959.

The federal outlook specialist noted that cattle numbers in the U.S. have bounced back from a decline begun two years ago. On Jan. 1, cattle numbers equaled the national record set in 1956.

Breimyer voiced concern over the nine per cent increase in June to August farrowings planned by hog growers. The USDA economist says this continued uptrend in production could bring a severe drop in hog prices in 1960.

Breimyer was guest speaker at Spring Livestock Day on University of Missouri campus. In addition, livestock producers attending the one-day event heard latest research reports on projects being carried by University's animal husbandry department.

Dates Ahead

Saturday, April 25, 7:30 p.m. — 4-H Fun Night for members over 12 years of age at Whittier gymnasium in Sedalia.

Late April — Pasture tour and meeting, date and place to be announced.

Spring Livestock Day April 10

The past Friday, April 10, was the date of the latest Spring Livestock day at the University. They used to be called Livestock Feeder days. A number of Pettis County folks were seen in the crowd of 1,000 or more farm people who attended. These folks included Carl Raines, Bruce Claycomb, J. R. Renison and Virgil Ellis from the Longwood neighborhood; J. P. Blackburn and son and John Tolson and his son, Dick, from Houstonia; Pierre Lamy from Sedalia; Frank Van Dyke from near Bahner and George Teter, Rance Hoehns and Elmer Bultmeier from south of Smithton.

Former Pettis Countian On Program

One of the reports was given by G. B. Thompson, son of Granville Thompson of the Quisenberry neighborhood. G. B. was one of our good 4-H'ers, was on the County 4-H livestock judging team and is now on the animal husbandry staff at the University.

G. B.'s report was on the use of a new feed additive called Tapazole. This material is thyroid inhibiting or a quieting substance. It might be referred to as a tranquilizer. It is designed to decrease the movement and activity of animals. These effects should increase the depositing of fat in muscle tissue.

Previous substances used as stilbestrol have been shown to improve gains of fattening steers by 15 per cent and reduce feed costs by 10 per cent. However, carcass grades of steers fed these compounds have generally been one-third to one-half a grade lower than steers fed similar rations without the hormone.

These latter compounds which are related to the sex glands appear to increase appetite and growth rate but seem to reduce fat deposition within the muscles. Such carcasses have adequate fat on the outside but lack in the interior marbling found in animals fed the same ration without these hormone-like compounds.

This test included 31 yearling grade Hereford steers which were divided into four lots. One of the four had tapazole added to the ration. At the end of the feeding period this lot graded slightly higher and sold for $26 per hundred weight. The other three lots brought $25.50 each.

Implants Used During Winter On Pasture and in Dry Lots

This experiment reported by Professor J. E. Comfort compared the results of Hexestrol implants on three phases of feeding. These included winter roughage, in summer in dry lot and on grass and in the final phase of on full feed. Hexestrol is similar to stilbestrol.

The winter ration was corn silage and soybean oil meal. Here a 24 milligram implant increased rate of gains by five per cent over the controls but the increase in feed efficiency was negligible.

Average daily gains on the check lots were 1.59 pounds as compared to 1.68 on the 24 milligram implants and 1.88 on the 24 milligram implants.

In the spring two lots were kept in dry lot and continued to be fed silage and equipment. The other two lots went on wheat and lespedeza pasture. One lot of each was re-implanted at the 24 milligram level.

The pasture lots could not keep up with those remaining in dry lot. They averaged only a pound of gain per day and the implant showed no advantage. Those in dry lot with no implant gained two pounds per day and those in dry lot with the 24 milligram implant gained two and two-thirds pounds per day. On a percentage basis the implanting of steers in dry lot increased the gain by 31 per cent and decreased the feed requirement per unit of gain by approximately 18 per cent.

For the fall period on full feed, an implant on pasture did improve gains. The lot receiving a 24 milligram implant at that time gained 19 per cent faster than a similar lot on pasture with no implant.

The dry-lot pen that had received no implants previously was implanted with 36 milligrams while the other dry lot pen was given 18 milligrams more. However this second pen had received 12 milligrams at the start of the first period and 18 at the start of the second. In this final phase the newly implanted 36 milligram lot produced 23 per cent larger daily gains with 20 per cent less concentrates than the other lot.

In summary implanting steers in the winter with 24 milligrams of hexestrol and reimplanting in the finishing period with 24 milligrams produced highest gains. This gave 10 per cent greater total gains than implanting at beginning of each of the three phases and 13 per cent more gain than no implants.

Taylor Victorious At Marshall Speedway

Slater's Ken Taylor, the 1958 Central Missouri Racing Association point champion, won his first feature race of the season Sunday afternoon at Marshall's Sportsman's Speedway. Torch Aleshire of Moberly, winner of the first two CMRA races this season, dropped to third and Walter Sorrels, the lead-footed junkman of Columbia wound up second.

Cold weather and the threat of rain held down the crowd to 900 fans, but the races were the closest of the year. The next CMRA races will be held Saturday night on Sedalia's Thunderbowl Speedway oval. More than 40 of the circuit's drivers have indicated they'll be on hand for the local opening.

Taylor grabbed the lead in the first turn of the feature race and kept the advantage throughout the 25 laps. He finished about 30 yards in front of Sorrels and Aleshire who finished in a near dead heat for the runner-up slot.

Although Taylor broke Aleshire's monopoly on the feature event, the Moberly veteran gained a bit of revenge by sweeping the time trials and the trophy dash. Aleshire's fast time was 18.77 for the quarter. He nosed out Taylor in the trophy dash with a 1:23.11 timing for five laps. Taylor had won the previous two trophy dashes.

Russ Hibbard of Slater won the inverted fast heat, nipping his brother, Roy Hibbard of Marshall, in a photo finish. Aubrey Techemeyer of Forrest Green was third and Sorrels was fourth.

The first heat race went to Pearson Turley of Blackwater. Bill Davis of Richmond and Bob Fenical of Blackwater finished second and third, respectively. Columbia's Buster Wilson continued to show well and he squeezed past Harold Cromley of Marshall in the final turn to win a nip and tuck battle for first in the second heat race. Ken Harper of Carrollton was third and Sedalia's Bill Utz was fourth.

Cromley came back to win the B Feature from Wilson in another crowd pleasing finish. Pearson Turley was third.

In claim car competition, Red Walton of Georgetown wound up third in the first event, but won the second race. Bill Bowen of Carrollton was the winner of the first claim car race and Charles Gaudin of Malta Bend was second. In the second race Bowen finished second and Lee Atkins of California was third.

Carter Rolls Second Highest In Keg Series

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Don Carter, using a new white bowling ball, knocked down 1005 pins in four games at the American Bowling Congress masters' Tournament last night for the second highest score in the nine-year history of the tourney.

The St. Louis star had games of 259, 199, 278 and 269. Joe Norris of Chicago, Carter's opponent, shot 762 in the first round of the finals.

Tony Lindemann of Detroit set the 1021 masters record last year in Syracuse, N.Y.

Detroit's Ed Lubanski, one of the favorites in the race for the 1959 masters crown, was upset by a 17-year-old St. Louis high school senior, Ray Orf. The youth shot only 770 for the four games, but his famous opponent mustered only 731. Lubanski leads two divisions, and his team leads another, in the regular ABC tournament.

Tom Hennessey of St. Louis, the defending masters' champion, whipped his first opponent in the finals, Dick Volting of St. Louis, 861-819.

The masters is a double elimination tournament. The championship match will be rolled Wednesday night.

There were no changes among the leaders of ABC divisions yesterday.

West Coast Fans Look At Antonelli

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco finally is getting a look at the real Johnny Antonelli, the man who must win and win big if the Giants are to jolt Milwaukee loose from the National League pennant.

A year ago Seals Stadium fans must have been wondering if it was true what they read about Johnny. He didn't win a game until April 26 and he didn't grab his third until May 18. He struggled around 500 until midseason and finally wound up at 16-13.

This is a new year and a new Antonelli. The 29-year-old left-hander from Rochester, N.Y., boasts a shiny 3-0 record. He scattered eight hits Sunday while pitching the Giants to a 3-1 victory over St. Louis.

Los Angeles stuck on the heels of the Giants by scoring five in the eighth inning to beat Chicago 8-3. The Dodgers are only a half game behind the Giants going into the Monday night opener of their three-game series with San Francisco at the Coliseum.

Johnny Podres, who usually does his best in the Coliseum, recovered from a miserable start and threw a four-hitter at the Cubs for his first victory.

Duke Snider finally came through with his first homer of the year, moving into 10th place on the all-time list. It was his 332nd homer, moving him ahead of Hank Greenberg on the role of select sluggers.

Cincinnati's power-packed lineup did a little slugging at Crosley Field, burying the Phillies 12-5 despite some unsteady pitching by rookie Jim O'Toole. After the rookie had walked seven, Manager Mayo Smith brought in Bob Mabe to take over in the fifth. Allowed only two hits in 4 2-3 innings.

Frank Robinson continued his slugging spree, knocking in four runs with a homer and a single. It was his third home run of the season.

Milwaukee had to postpone its scheduled game with Pittsburgh because of cold weather and a threat of rain.

In the American League, the Cleveland Indians finally were beaten after winning six straight. Kansas City did the job 4-3, scoring four in the ninth off Herb Score. Zeke Bella's pinch double with the bases loaded was the big blow.

Frank Malzone's 12th inning home run off Ryne Duren gave Boston a 5-4 decision over the New York Yankees after a pinch homer by 42-year-old Enos Slaughter (he'll be 43 on April 27) of New York tied the score in the ninth. The Detroit at Chicago game was postponed because of cold weather.

Baltimore and Washington split a pair at Baltimore, the Orioles rallied with six runs in the seventh to grab the opener 7-5. Russ Kemmerer went the route for Washington in its 4-2 second game triumph as Harmon Killebrew and Jim Lemon homered for the Senators.

Jim Davenport led the Giants attack with three singles in a perfect day at bat. He now has five straight singles. On his last time up, he was hit by a pitched ball thrown by loser Larry Jackson. Willie Mays knocked in two runs, scoring Davenport twice.

Podres and Dave Hillman were locked in a 3-3 tie when the Dodgers broke loose in the eighth. Wally Moon's single drove in the first two runs. Junior Gilliam, Snider, Don Demeter and Charley Neal also singled in the big inning.

Race Driver Killed In Guard Rail Crash

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Dick Linder of Pittsburgh was killed in his hurtling racing car Sunday when he tried to avoid a pileup at the Trenton Speedway and crashed over the guard rail.

Linder's neck was broken as his $25,000 Indianapolis-type racer rolled over on the 58th lap. He was pronounced dead at a hospital.

Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., won the 100-mile race which was shortened to 87 laps because of rain.

Furillo On Bench Again As Spectator

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A dark, muscular fellow in his late thirties was sitting blank-faced on a trunk in the nearly empty dressing room when somebody walked up and asked:

"Hey—you play on this team?" "It doesn't look like it," said Carl Furillo, one of the ablest outfielders the Dodgers ever had. "You put up a beef yet because they haven't been playing you?"

"Not yet," he said. "But it won't be long." This season, for the first time in a decade or so, Furillo has not been a regular starter. He was on the bench again Sunday when Los Angeles beat Chicago 8-3 with a couple of come-latelies in the outfield.

"I can't take a layoff like this," he said. "It'll ruin me." "I'm okay in the field, but I'm losing my timing at the plate. So far, I've started just twice. Before the season, I played six innings in an exhibition in Jacksonville. That's about all the playing I've done since the beginning of March, or maybe about the 10th."

Furillo is 37. His arm last year was not the same superb weapon that prompted some admirer to nickname him the Reading Rifle early in his career. But last season he still hit .290 and he drove in 33 runs, more than anybody else on the team.

Manager Walt Alton has been using Wally Moon and Don Demeter regularly in left and center. Ron Fairly, Duke Snider and Furillo have played in right. Demeter and Moon both have hit well, and Alton might be accused of insanity if he kept Snider on the bench when he was able to play.

So Furillo has become an impatient spectator. "It bothers me both mentally and physically," he said. "I've got to play all the time to keep my edge."

"But I'll wait a little longer—maybe until we get on the road—and then I'll start making some noise."

Louise Suggs Leads Women In Golf Tour

DALLAS (AP)—Louise Suggs, as imperturbable as her putter, led women's golf both in money earned and stroke average today as the tour moved on to Spartanburg, S. C.

Miss Suggs took over top billing with victory in the $10,000 Dallas Women's Open Sunday.

Three first places and three seconds in 11 tournaments built the jackpot to $6,983.72 for Miss Suggs, dubbed Miss Poker Face of golf.

Her stroke average is under 3 per round. She led with 73.85 going into this tournament and averaged 71.75 Sunday in winning the Dallas Open with 287 for 72 holes and taking $1,662.50.

Miss Suggs came into the eighteenth hole Sunday tied with Wiffi Smith of St. Clair, Mich., for the lead if she got par 4 on the final green. However, she laced her second shot within eight feet of the cup and sank the putt that prevented a playoff.

Miss Suggs closed out with a 72 while Miss Smith also shot the same total and finished with 288, winning $1,282.50.

New Trial Movie In Production

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — The setting was familiar enough to John Voelker — the Marquette County courtroom where he prosecuted many a case as district attorney.

But the defense attorney was a movie star: James Stewart, and he was questioning beautiful Lee Remick. On the bench was the noted lawyer-turned-actor Joseph Welch. The action was directed by film maker Otto Preminger.

Voelker could blame this invasion on his own double life. To the citizens of Michigan he is known as a justice of the State Supreme Court. But he is also Robert Traver, author of the best-selling "Anatomy of a Murder," and he is here to give advice on filming of the tale.

He is a big, friendly man whose resemblance to John Wayne was noted by Jimmy Stewart. Between scenes, he lighted a cheroot

Youth Night Held

Youth Night of Lamine Association was held at Mt. Olive Baptist Church, Florence, Saturday, April 11, with 107 present. After the conferences, Miss Wanda Homan, president, Syracuse, introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Charles Pratt, Lebanon.

Refreshments were served by Mt. Olive WMS. The attendance record was given to Mt. Olive with 25 young people present.

and talked about his two professions.

It was the voters of Marquette County who interfered with his writing career. Six times they voted him district attorney. The seventh time, they turned him out.

"That gave me the time to be an author," he said. "I took five and a half months off and did nothing but write."

The result was "Anatomy of a Murder." The justice is keeping a close eye on the film makers and approves the treatment of his book — "there will be no last-minute witnesses, no sitting on the lap of those testifying, no finger-pointing in third degree. That's corn, pure corn, and all lawyers will see trial movies recognize this."

Smith-Cotton News

Present Intramural Plays At Smith-Cotton This Week

By Douglas Shoemaker

The Smith-Cotton intramural plays will be presented this week. The junior high plays, eighth grade and freshman classes will be presented this Thursday, April 23, at 7:30 p.m. The senior high plays are Friday, April 24 (See Monday, April 13, paper, Page 10.) Tickets for the plays are now available.

Smith-Cotton is almost buried under hundreds of posters, and other political vote-getters. This past Monday, April 13, the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors heard the campaign speeches of the candidates for next year's Senior Student Council presidency. The five candidates, Ronnie Jones, Mike Hanigan, Richard Wertz, Hank Monsees, and Jim Rodewald, had the building plastered with small posters shortly after the speeches, and that evening erected such novelties as ten to 15-foot long signs, about five inches tall, vertical signs, hanging from the third floor to the first, in the open space between flights of stairs, and "Don't Read This" signs, with the message in very fine print. All signs were characterized by eye catching slogans and short poetic verses.

Added to this Tuesday, were the masterpieces of the eighth graders who are campaigning for the Junior High presidency. They are Judy Sewell, Russell Leslie, Vivian Rowles, Patty Sewell, and Bill Hopkins.

Many promises or pledges were made by some candidates, while others said they felt that very little could be done without the cooperation of all the student body. Some of the things proposed were: A school newspaper; a student telephone directory, with numbers listed under students' names, not their parents, a suggestion box in each home room for student opinion, and more school dances, such as following various sporting events. Gary Christian, this year's Senior Council president, and Dale Herrick, president of the Junior Council both expressed their hope that students would vote carefully. The primaries are April 21, when the field will be narrowed to two candidates. Then on April 27 these two will be voted on, the winner receiving the presidency, and the other the office of vice-president.

Tuesday, April 7, at 4 p.m. the Business and Professional Women gave Smith-Cotton's sophomore girls a tea. The tea, under the direction of Miss Mary Jane Wilson, featured talks given by various professional women their vocations. The tea was at St. Paul's Lutheran Church Educational Building and was served by women of the church.

The Washington University Choir, conducted by Donn Weiss, presented a musical assembly for the Senior High School April 9, at 2:15 p.m. This was their first stop on a tour, with other stops in Joplin, Springfield, and Kansas City. The group is from Washington University in St. Louis, and is composed of students from not only the school of music, but also the schools of engineering, liberal arts, architecture, etc.

Wednesday, April 8, the Hazel Gray Chapter of the Future Teachers of America gave the Smith-Cotton faculty a tea after school. The teachers passed through a reception line, composed of members of the Future Teachers, and talked to them about teaching and its problems.

The Junior High enjoyed an assembly by the Junior Band and Glee Club Wednesday, April 15. An unusual feature was a Hawaiian dance by Christina Roy.

The Latin Club met at 7 Thursday evening, April 16, in the Little Theater. After the business meeting the program was given. First Gloria Rouchka gave a talk on the Roman practice of "Clientage." Then Judy Summers, accompanied by Kay Jacobi, sang the "Londonderry Air" in Latin. Next a playlet entitled, "What's in a Name," was given. Those participating in the play were: Gary Ellis, Douglas Shoemaker, Jim Gardner, Dennis Lively, Mary Kay Anderson, Karen McMullen, Treasia Knapp, Sandra Crow, Bill Woolery, Jackie Case, Linda Ohlrich, Mark Shelby, and Charles Hoffman.

Next on the program, Janette Ady discussed the life and writings of the Roman poet Horace. Then Charles Hoffman played two stanzas of Horace's ode "Integer Vitae," accompanied by Sandra Hammond, and Kay Jacobi sang in Latin the first stanzas also. Linda Bunn gave a reading of Horace's "Ode to the Republic," in which Horace personifies the Republic as a ship venturing forth on stormy seas, and foresees the downfall of Rome.

Picks Up Track Shoe; Last Man In Race

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Joe Collovo, Lyman, Wyo., finished last in a two-mile race here Saturday. He crossed the finish line holding somebody else's track shoe, which he had thoughtfully stopped to retrieve on his last lap around the muddy field.

Couple Seeking Information On Scott Joplin

Mr. and Mrs. John Vanderlee of Crowley, Tex., authorities and entertainers in ragtime music are in Sedalia trying to get still more information on Scott Joplin, originator of ragtime music, who wrote and published his first pieces in Sedalia.

Ragtime, when properly played, is classic and beautiful, the Vanderlees say, and that was the way it was first written and played. It was later that timing on it was changed and began to have a swing that it finally became jazz.

John Vanderlee plays the piano, and since he has some of the original music, plays it as it is written. People do not know, the Vanderlees believe, real ragtime music. They have never heard it played.

Mrs. Vanderlee, who tells the story of ragtime, has for a long time and still is tracing everything about it so that she will present only facts. As she tells the story her husband plays the ragtime music as it should be played.

Their entertainment last an hour or more, according to what is wanted, Mrs. Vanderlee said.

The Vanderlees have had articles on ragtime published in which they tell of Scott Joplin's life and of his coming to Sedalia where he played the first ragtime which was published by John Starke. They also have been written up numerous times.

Britain Grets Herter With Varied Views

LONDON (AP) — Britain's press over the weekend greeted Christian A. Herter's appointment as secretary of state with varying shades of emotion ranging from sharp criticism to hopeful enthusiasm.

The British Labor party organ cited Herter's arthritic condition and said his new job is "too much for any pain-racked invalid." In a blunt editorial, the Daily Herald declared that sick old man cannot rule the world and said President Eisenhower "is a broken man, incapable of the energy required to grasp important matters for any length of time."

Most British papers expressed profound hope that Herter would succeed in his new post.

Herter's nomination got an enthusiastic reception from newspapers in Paris, where he was born of American parents. There was approving comment too in Formosa and Korea, two of America's strongest Asian allies.

London's Sunday Times hailed Herter's appointment, calling him "a man whose record inspires our most hopeful trust." The London Observer noted, however, that his predecessor, John Foster Dulles, was a man who created policy and that it seemed Herter did not command the same respect and confidence from Eisenhower.

Death Ends Career Of Noted Actor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Death has ended the 50-year theatrical career of Irving Cummings, 70.

The actor and director died Saturday of a heart ailment.

While on the stage he was a leading man for Lillian Russell, Ethel Barrymore and Alice Brady. He wrote and directed the first film starring the original Rin Tin Tin. He directed many of Shirley Temple's pictures in the 1930s.

Surviving are the widow, former actress Ruth Sinclair, and a son, producer Irving Cummings Jr.

Voting In Algeria Is Threatened

ALGIERS (AP) — Voting in Algeria's week-long municipal elections limped along today with rebel threats and attacks keeping the turnout small.

Unofficial reports said at least 16 persons had been killed and nearly 70 wounded so far by rebel terrorists seeking to sabotage the voting ordered by the French.

The voting began Sunday. In the city of Algiers, 45 per cent of those eligible balloted. In the countryside — where the French army is in direct control — some 60 per cent braved the threat of rebel reprisal.

Early returns from three wards in Algiers gave a lead to an extreme right wing faction favoring Algerian integration with France and an end to the government of President Charles de Gaulle.

Although only municipal offices are at stake, the campaign centered on a struggle between backers and opponents of de Gaulle.

City voters had a choice of candidates, but voters in more than 60 per cent of the rural communities had only candidates approved and mustered by the French authorities.

In Algiers, 258 Europeans and 193 Moslems campaigned for 75 municipal council seats. Most of the Moslem candidates were the same men who have cooperated with the French for years.

De Gaulle had hoped that the elections would produce a representation of moderate Moslem nationalists with whom France could begin working toward negotiations for Algeria's future status. But even the moderate nationalists refused to run, claiming the election had been decided in advance.

Although European Algerians constitute 10 per cent of the country's 10 million inhabitants, they are guaranteed one-third of all municipal council seats.

Gen. Jacques Massu, commander of the Algiers area, sought to conquer voter apathy and fear by broadcasting an appeal for a larger turnout. Army loudspeaker trucks toured the capital, blaring that to abstain from voting was "to betray the army."

To prevent rebel reprisals against Moslem voters, troops kept non-residents from entering 120 northern Algerian communities.

Polling places were guarded in Algiers. Every Moslem was frisked before being allowed to enter.

Patrolman Dies In Lifesaving Attempt

CUMBERLAND, Maine (AP) — A patrolman died of a heart attack Sunday night while trying vainly to save a man from a similar fate.

Patrolman Robert Tarbox, 54, died while administering oxygen to Charles H. Mergendahl, 71, a Bowdoin College, instructor. Mergendahl had been stricken in his automobile. Both were dead on arrival at a hospital.

'Maid of the Mist' Gives Up Title

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Niagara Falls' Maid of the Mist, pretty Charlene Bohnet, gave up her title Sunday night for an early marriage.

Her move opened the way for her runner-up to succeed her. The city is happy for Charlene and delighted with the new Maid-to-be, Judith Lynne Hitchcock, 18, a sparkling little blonde.

Miss Bohnet had until October to reign, but the rules are strict; no married women for Maids.

Earlier she had indicated she would delay her marriage to Donald Learman, but over the weekend she announced her change of heart.

"I love Don and that's the most important thing," she said.

Let's Talk Gardening

Soil That Grows Vegetables Will Produce Good Roses

By Mrs. O. J. Smith
Garden Club 6

My subject is "The Beginner's Rose Garden." Since the beginning of any garden is the planting, this is what I will outline for you today.

Any soil that will produce good vegetables will also produce good roses. Choose a spot that has sun for at least half the day. . . and is away from competing roots of trees and shrubs. Plant hybrid tea roses for handsome blooms on long stems, and grow a few floribundas if you want more flowers, equally perfect, but on shorter stems.

First of all, make each hole large enough for rose roots to spread naturally. Make a cone shaped pile of dirt in the center of the hole so the dirt will be in direct contact with the roots.

Step two, the broken and skinned roots should be cut off with sharp shears.

Three, spread the roots out spoke-wise. Hold the plant so that the joint (bud union) is an inch above the soil in mild climates, one to two inches below the surface in cold areas.

Four, use water to settle soil firmly and fill all the air pockets about the roots. Pull slightly on the plant and jostle it a little so that the water-pulls the fine soil tightly about the roots. Do not tramp down on the wet soil.

Five, in fall planting, cut tops back about 12 inches, the following spring cut back to the top-most plump bud on the outer side of each stem. In spring planting, cut back to six inches at once.

Six, check again to be sure that plant is at right height.

Seven, suspend wet burlap for two weeks over new rose or mound soil eight inches around cones to keep from drying before the roots can start to function. Press soil lightly.

Finally, to remove the mound in spring, yet avoid breaking off tiny new buds, wash the soil down to the level of the bed with a light stream of water.

The better the care a rose plant gets between the grower's field and its new home, the better chance it has of performing to your satisfaction. Always buy, if possible, the best grade. They should have two to three stems and good roots. If you have many to plant, keep roots in water and carry only a few of the plants outside at a time.

Gardeners are lucky to be buying roses today. Stems are stiffer, foliage is heavier, and colors are clearer. Their beauty is far more lasting than in the roses your grandmother knew.

Today you can choose from brilliant new colors wholly unknown 15 short years ago. The showy floribundas and new stiff-caned climbers suit today's gardens perfectly.

A last word of advice on how to choose your plant. The qualities most important in garden roses are vigor of plant, fragrance, freedom of bloom, shape and quality of buds and open flowers, color, strong stems, good appearance of plant all season and total yield of flowers.

Surprise Party Given

Dr. Gatschet and Mrs. Agnes Yoest were hostesses for a surprise party given for Miss Ida Hartman.

About 35 relatives and friends gathered at Ida's home last Sunday evening at 4 p.m. to visit and wish her a happy birthday. The evening meal consisted of the covered dishes brought by the guests. The table was decorated with candles and a lovely birthday cake. The flower arrangements were yellow jonquils and forsythia.

Ida received about 40 friendship quilt blocks with over 150 embroidered names. She was assisted in opening the gifts by Dolores, Andrea and Danny Yoest. After an enjoyable evening, the guests departed wishing Ida many more happy birthdays.
